Dying every day : Seneca at the court of Nero. by Romm ...

Seneca himself wrote that 'cotidie morimur' — 'we die every day.' The obvious literal sense is that every day brings us closer to death; the phrase is also a reference to the Stoic self-preparation for death, the daily meditatio mortis which is supposed to ensure that you are constantly ready for death: 'Death does not enter a great soul so much as return to it.' But dying every day is also the way Romm portrays Seneca's frame of mind under Nero: the concept plays double duty as political ...
